

Tosca

We were hoping you might think
things through,
try to get over it.

No matter your beloved Cavaradossi
lies executed
at your feet,

Liberty is in the air,
Art will prevail and
you, luscious diva,
can love again.

Floria, stop! Let fly your faith to unfetter hope. Just this time, please —

please don't jump. Fling that nasty Spoletta
off the parapet instead.
Capisce?

Victorien Sardou's successful play featuring Sandra Bernhardt as the fictional diva, Floria Tosca, spawned opera music by Giacomo Puccini for libretto written by Luigi Illica and Giuseppe Giacosa. Puccini's 'Tosca' has been a popular opera favourite since its first performance at Rome in 1900.
